February is the month in which we honor Presidents with a national holiday. It causes me to consider the lives of Washington, Adams, Jefferson, and other key individuals to whom we owe gratitude for creating the framework of our great nation more than 240 years ago. I find myself marveling at the many advancements that mankind has made during the span of my lifetime. It is truly amazing to consider the accomplishments that human kind has made in transportation, technology, science, and with communication. We certainly are the benefactors of those who have preceded us. Our Founding Fathers made great sacrifices. This country may have its blemishes, but for the most part, it is a beautiful republic which provides us many freedoms and opportunities—some of which, at times, we may take for granted.

In his inaugural address, President John F. Kennedy reminded the country of such:

"We dare not forget today that we are the heirs of that first revolution. Let the word go forth from this time and place, to friend and foe alike, that the torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans – born in this century, tempered by war, disciplined by a hard and bitter peace, proud of our ancient heritage – and unwilling to witness or permit the slow undoing of those human rights to which this Nation has always been committed, and to which we are committed today at home and around the world."

We do live in a wonderful community where people are known to be charitable, friendly, and who care for their neighbors and friends. We see those same values in the children at Hurricane Intermediate. It warms my soul to see our students helping each other, willing to include others at lunch and in activities, and embracing the school ROAR themes of Respect, Open-Mindedness, Attitude, and Responsibility. These values help our students look within themselves and outwardly look to help others. While our students are not perfect, their actions give me hope in knowing that there is a bright future ahead of us.

It is our hope and goal that our students embrace the final challenge given by President Kennedy's in that address.

"ask not what your country can do for you – ask what you can do for your country."

It is our hope that our students will look for opportunities to serve others more than hold expectations of what the community should be doing for them.
